

ANGIOLO MARTINELLI

- Angiolo Martinelli currently holds the position of Director of the Sustainable Use of Water Resources Division of the USSA Directorate-General of MASE.
- He is an environmental expert with specialist skills in geochemistry-geohydrology and agriculture-environment.
- He began his professional career as an external researcher at the Department of Earth Sciences of the University of Perugia.
- He has worked as a consultant for both public administrations and private companies in the fields of water management, spatial planning and design.
- From 1986 to 2002, he worked periodically in various international cooperation contexts, working on projects and partnerships in different countries (Africa, Latin America and the Middle East).
- From 2004 to 2019, he held management positions at the Environmental Protection Agency of the Umbria Region (2004 - 2011) and then of the Lazio Region. Among his various responsibilities, he was in charge of environmental reporting, monitoring and control of the water cycle, air quality, contaminated sites, IPPC plants and waste, project development and management, and coordination of human and financial resources.
- He is the author and editor of books on environmental protection and water resource management and of various national and international publications on the same topics.